DAVIS, MILES

LIVE AT MONTREUX 1991 (WITH QUINCY JONES & GIL EVANS ORCH.)

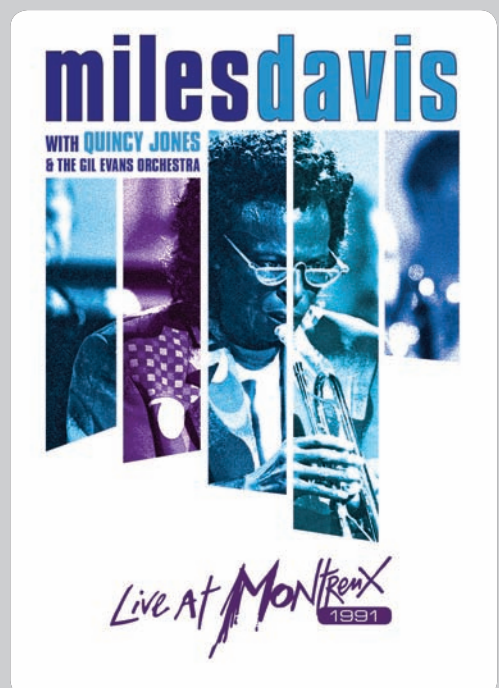

EAGLE / JAZZ

- This concert from 8 July 1991 was the last of MILES DAVIS' many appearances at the Montreux Jazz Festival and took place only a few months before his death. Despite a defiant "never look back" philosophy, Miles was persuaded by Quincy Jones and Claude Nobs to take part in this tribute to his great friend Gil Evans, who had passed away in 1988.
- This truly unique concert was an historical event and a musical triumph, thankfully captured here for posterity. Miles Davis was a giant of 20th century music and this concert is as much a tribute to him as it is to the late Gil Evans.
- Special features include: Interview with Claude Nobs / Interviews about Miles Davis
- Includes the classic tracks: "Summertime", "Miles Ahead", "The Duke", "Blues for Pablo" and more
